V. Market outlook

GDP growth has strongly recovered in 2017 and is expected to keep its momentum in 2018. Inflation and local currency outlook is benign. With the backdrop of GDP growth momentum and mitigated macro risks, a positive view on equity market is maintained although VNIndex has reached new levels. Market cap expansion due to state divestment and equitization will attract more foreign capital inflows. Corporate earnings growth prospect still justify investment returns expectation in 2018. Overall, it is believed that equity market still has good investment value in 2018.
